Testimonial

Let me tell you about this girl. She loved Harry Potter movies growing up! For those who know about the Harry Potter series, who remembers the cloak of invisibility? Don't all answer at once! Well, this girl. this cute, quaint girl felt like she was given that cloak of invisibility at birth. She knew she was there but it seems as if nobody did. It is like standing in a room filled with people and you still feel alone. She always felt alone. She often dreamt of running away and being a princess. Why a princess you may ask? Well, because princesses don't have a worry in the world. They are beautiful, everything is provided for them, they are protected and treated like royalty. (And one day the princess gets to meet a charming prince *wink wink*) Well, even though this girl desperately wanted to be a princess she knew she would never be one. Life was rough to her, no matter how nice she was, smart she was, a good child, a good friend, nothing seem to stop the abuse, the pain, the depressive and suicidal thoughts, or the self harm. She finally gave up on the notion of "it will be better" and she settled for whatever she could get. She cried in dark and private places because when she try to cry in the open, she was told it wasn't allowed, that she should be strong because life is just life and time will heal all things. Oh yeah you heard that too? Yeah, its from the "Stay Broken" handbook you should Not pick up a copy. So what happen to the girl? I know that is what you thinking.

Well guess what? That girl turn into a young woman who thought daily about taking her life. She stop eating completely. She thought she would waste away slowly. She thought somebody would notice and get her help. She just desperately wanted to be visible! Oh snap, she couldn't; the cloak of invisibility was still on her neck and around her shoulders. Since starving herself was taking too long, she considered pills. Well she never like taking medicine and always would have a hard time swallowing so that didn't work either(thank God!). She thought all ways she possibly could to go, but she just couldn't do it! She didn't want to be GONE, she just wanted to be SEEN. She still wants to be SEEN! But by God now and not by people. Spoiler alert: I am that girl. Kerionne Lania Lewis. Nice to meet you! I shared with you a piece of my testimony to let anyone know who is facing anxiety, depression or suicide to know that you are seen. I know your family, friends, school, co workers and the world may not see you or see you for who you truly are but God, Abba(Father), Elohim, our creator sees you. He seen you before you were placed into your mother's womb(Jeremiah 1:5). God did not wrap you in a blanket of invisibility when you were born, he wrap you in light. And you must know there are things in this world after your light. I always use to think "Why me? Why did this happen to me? Why do I have to go through this?" Well because I am FIRE and anything that tries to steal my light will get burned. When fires grow they set ablaze everything around it. We are God's trailblazers! We are not candlesticks. Our light should not be gone as soon as something comes along to blows us out. Did you know if someone's clothes catch on fire, to put the fire out they wrap a "blanket" around you? Remember that cloak I was talking about eariler. One way to put out your fire(light), is to put a cloak of invisibility around you to make you "think" you dont matter. That this world, your family, your spouse, your kids will be better off without you! I just want to tell you something very important that God continues to shares with me, when firefighters comes around: "if this world didnt need you, why would I send you into it?" I will leave you with that thought beloved. Why would God created you in heaven, be birthed into this earth, for you not to matter? He would not do that, he is a purposeful and good good father. It's not until you know for yourself that God is a good father, you would truly understand the importance or purpose of your light. Look at that the scripture above, and say "Holy Spirit speak to me, make it clear to me" and then read the scripture aloud. Throw off that invisibility cloak, we aren't invisible and we shouldn't act like it. Be encouraged, you are blessed, you can make it another day, don't give up on yourself because our heavenly father hasn't and never will.

Before you go, you can accept Jesus today...

I today, accept Jesus into my life. I believe he died and rose for me. I want to do life with Jesus starting today. I know that this a journey and I am willing to stay the course. I know all that he requires of me is to try and I make my first step here by accepting Jesus into my life. From this day forward my life will be changed. In Jesus name I pray, Amen.
